John G. Thompson's motto is: "In poli-"ties we never could trust them Dutch," That is Democratic opinion.

THE Democrats have found a new tune in their burdy-gurdy. There are too many Irishmen on JOHN KILLY's city ticket.

That is just what the Louisville Courier Journal has done in a column editorial simed at THE NATIONAL REPUBLICAN and an ex-Public Printer who seems to have fallen under the ban of its displeasure We say it has slopped over for the reason that, instead of indulging in graceful and argumentative discussion of the THE rear guard of the New York Repub- points at issue, it froths and foams like an offervescing pool of trifles, and indulges in personalities and impertinencies unbecoming respectable journalism. This being its forte, of course it would be unreasonable, perhaps, to expect any higher plane of discussion from it, however much its peculiarities may mar the proprieties of journalistic relation. It usually slops over when it gets cornered, and in this instance its effort contains little else than the slops of irrelevance

Now, one word with the Courier-Journay he has not seen his patron saint for six about THE NATIONAL REPUBLICAN being conducted by an ex-Public Printer, whose "exit from that official position a few years ago, without conviction for irregularities greatly disappointed that BLACKBURN, the "tirely to the grace of ULYSSES GRANT." in the conduct of the office, was due engreat American "wiper," does not come into that State to help ROBINSON out. Ratred of Pareigners. October 29, 1879.

To the Editor of The National Republican: SIR: Readers of the Post, the city organ of the Simon-pure Democracy, have now and then surved up for their delectation little editorial squibs anent the predominance of the office by the Democratic party in New York STONE & HANLEY, City, and doubtless these malevolent shafts conseems hard, but it is nevertheless so, for the ceived in the prescriptive, intolerant nature of reason that no Democrat in the South has the Know-Nothing editor and kindly symever kept perfect faith with the results of pathy in the sentiments entertained by the Railroad Tickets to the National Pair the war. The amendments to the Constitu- majority of the readers of the Post, who are tion which make citizens of the freedmen are revited, despised and disregarded by the Southern Democrats, as are all the other measures born of the war; and for the furthern between the settle upon their maste and unproductive millions of acres of idle land. It is true that some of the Southern cities afforded in the past a field for the employment of the hardy and strong but unskilled labor of the willing, ple put very little trust in their sayings and doings. It will take time and continued good behavior on their part to restore confidence in Southern Democrats. days of the plug-uglies in particles and in Washington, and the flerce hostility entertained toward the foreigner by the New Or-leans Consulle, but while remembering this, however, we do not forget that noble men like Henry A. Wise, of Virginia, were not wanting in our hour of trial to curb and keep in check the flery Southern man's hostility toward the foreigner, whose lot was east in the land of of foreigner, whose lot was cast in the land of Dixte. To the intolerant spirit now latent, the editor of the Post panders in its relterated false statement of the exclusion of the native element from the John Kelly or Tommany ticket. Stilson, like many others of his ilk, will insist upon calling men Irish if they happen to bear an Irish name, even though their ancestry in this country runs back to beyond the Revolutionary days—and there are many Irish names which can boast of such ancestry, as we Irish are by no means strangers in this land of liberty. We came at the beginning and will continue to come to the end. Now it happens that John Kelly and a majority of the other nominees of Tammany, classed by the Post as Irishmen, are really natives of New York city and have never been known in connection with matters of a purely Irish project. oreigner, whose lot was east in the land of John Kelly is admitted by his enemics to be a pure and honorable man. Can Stilson's friends say as much of him and speak the truth? John Kelly is now continuing the good work of reformation initiated by the overthrow of Boss Tweed, and it is to be hoped that next election day in New York State will show that Kelly has settled Tilden as effectually as Tweed was done for.

The Post has many Irish readers, and they have noticed for a long time back its unfriendly bearing toward them and Irish questions, as well as its very pro-English attitude on all John Kelly is admitted by his enemies to be as well as its very pro-English attitude on all occasions; but that, I presume, cannot be helped, as it is the nature of the animal. It may, however, be well for the Irish citizens of Washington to bear in mind these little squibs from Stilson's own pen. I would suggest— Irish Democrat as I am—that a few thousand copies of the Hutchings virus relative to "John Kelly's ticket," in the Post of October 29, b printed for distribution among the naturalized citizens of New York city and Brooklyn, as it

tion, and have stocked it with the one and the importations of a five temperature of the construction of the construction of the construction of the construction of the very lowest wholesate prices.

In opening a Branch House in this city we would say we are no strangers, as we have been long and favorably known to a good many of the public who have from time to time patroutized our Baltimore Stores, where we are doing a large and very successful business.

To those who have not already tried our TEAS, we would say if you really want GOOD TEAS, came and see us and tring your friends.

There is no worse nargain than bad teas, nor any so dear and d sappointing. We want to give the people of Washington the opportunity of enjoying a well-flavored one, that cheers the young as well as the old heart, and leaves no unplement sensation to regret its use. Everyone is looking for Good Teas, and those who have liftners falled to find so precious a commodity should give us a trial. who have interto make to find so precious a com-modity should give us a trial.

OUR COFFEES WILL SPEAK FOR THEM-SELVES. They can't be surpassed for quality and chespness. We would specially invite the attention of Hotel-keepers, Restaurants, &c. sed required an inspection of our great variety of Coffees. Our very inspection of our great variety of Coffice. Our very extensive experience gives us the knowledge requisite to place before purchasers the livet Selected stock of Coffices ever offered to the public in this city. They are strictly pure and fresh, Our rossting is done by the most improved machinery, retaining a greater percentage of the sromas than formerly. One trial will convince the most supplied that log SEV-ENTH STIEET (opposite the Postoffice, are door from E), is the piace to buy the most delicious Coffices at a lower price than elsewhere.
